

ROYAL HOLLOWAY COLLEGE – Monday 11th JUNE 2018

A whole day visit to the little known gem - Royal Holloway College (part of London University) at Egham. The College was founded by Thomas Holloway who made his fortune in pills and potions. We will learn about the building which is based on the Chateau of Chambord on the Loire. There will be a tour of The Founder's Building, Chapel, North Quad South Quad and possibly the Dining Hall.

We will then have lunch of assorted sandwiches, fruit platter, mineral water and tea/coffee in the Picture Gallery. The extensive collection includes works by John Brett, Daniel Maclise, Sir Edwin Landseer, John Millais and Edwin Long. We will have a talk about the paintings and then some free time.

COST £38, per person (includes coach travel, entry to Royal Holloway College, services of guides throughout the day, sandwich lunch and gratuities)
